ANOTHER DAY OF SURPRISE

RUNNING WATER WINS MERCHANTS' AND CITIZENS' HANDICAP.

Sets New Track Record for Mile and Three-Sixteenths-Dr. Gardner's Fast Pace Causes Defeat of Dandelion.

Saratoga, N. Y., August 20.-The bookmakers are seemingly reaping a harvest here, but in truth they are only getting back some of the money that taken from them earlier in the meeting was the fourteenth day of the meeting and like the thirteenth it was without an outstanding favorite among the winners. The succession of victorious utsiders is becoming exasperating, particularly to those who fold velvet only when the favorites win.

The feature of the card was the Merchants' and Citizens' Handican at one mile and three-sixteenths in which the skillfully ridden Running Water scored a lucky and surprising victory over Dandelion, the favorite, with Cairngorm and Dr. Gardner next in order and close enough up to make the finish exciting. Running Water's time was 1:58\hat{\epsilon}, a new track record. Had not Dr. Gardner been in the race it is the opinion of good judges that Dandelion would have won. Mr. Hitchcock's horse is at his best right now. Dr. Gardner set a tremendously fast and Mountain used Dandelion excessively in chasing him

Ben Ban, Vails and Welbourne reached the finish of the opening race, the handicap at three-quarters of a mile, heads apart, and it marked the first defeat this season for John Sanford's good filly. Ben Ban was lucky at the start and his victory a fluke. With an even break both Vails and Welbourne would have beaten him and possibly J. C. Core would have been one of the first three. was much interfered with during the first five furlongs and Welbourne was away poorly. J. Core broke broke flat-footed and was pocketed in the early running.

The second race was at a mile for maiden jockeys and was not as truly run as it would have been with experienced riders as pilots. The finish was exciting, however, the first four horses-Fancy Bird. D'Arkle, Sir Toddington and Mark Antony II .being heads apart at the end. The little boy O'Con nor, under contract to Preston Burch, rode the winner and was fortunate in that P. Kelly on Sir Toddington was not more experienced, for Sir Toddington was undoubtedly the best horse and Kelly threw the race away.

Ben Fleet, which opened favorite for the third race, but was neglected while the support of the public and the wise brigade as well went to He knows, made a runaway affair of it, winning easily by three lengths from John Sanford's Fultonville, a head in front of Monopolist, with Heknows a firing fourth. Fultonville after this race is well worth remembering. He will do.

people who have been watching the gallops profited by the victory of Ocean Spray, backed from 25 to 15 to 1, in the fifth race. Lane Allen went out and set the pace for the first mile, with Ocean Spray and Missouri Lad, heads apart, within strik ing distance all the way. On the last turn Beckman made the mistake of taking up Missouri Lad. and when Lane Allen or nit Notter to the front and earned a head victory over the inju diciously ridden Missouri Lad. Good Luck met with Cork Hill, the favorite for the closing race, wa unable to raise a respectable gallop and finished in the ruck. Thomas H. Williams' Prejuicio to the lead at the half-mile ground and held it to the end, scoring in a drive with Howard Shean.

Peter Pan will, as was told in Daily Racing Form several days ago, race no more this The great three-year-old has been shipped to Mr Keene's Castleton Stud in Kentucky to remain until he is a four-year-old. Trainer Rowe has no doubt that the gigantic son of Commando—Cinderella, by Hermit, will train next season,

R. Ellison says Yankee Girl will not be starter in the race for the Saratoga Cup Saturday three-year-old daughter of Sir Dixon is not herself and Ellison has decided to give her a long his present intention not to start her again until the autumn meeting at Belmont Park

DEATHS RECENTLY REPORTED

August Belmont lost a valuable foal at Nursery Stud recently. It was a bay filly by Melton (sir of Sysonby) out of Topiary, a young mare by Orme -Plaisantaire (dam of Hawkswick), which Mr Belmont brought over from England along with Rock Sand last summer.

T. Wilson, Jr., has had considerable bad luck with the get of Mexican. He has lost by death two yearlings and four foals of this year within weeks. The yearlings were out Hawthorne Princess and Homeopathy, and the foals of 1907 were out of L'Alouette, Money Box, Sparkle Esher and Witchcraft.

J. N. Camden, Jr., reports the death of two young mares at Hartland Stud; Sempronia, bay 4, by Sempronius-Proud Daisy, and an unnamed three-year-old brown filly by Trenton-Jane

CONDENSED HISTORY OF THE ALBANY HANDICAP

The Albany Handicap has no extended history, but since its first running in 1901 has furnished inter esting contests in which good, but not high-class, youngsters have furnished the winners. this afternoon for the seventh time, with considerable interest attaching to Jim Gaffney's performance in the role of high weight carrier. STEADY RAIN FALLS AT FORT ERIE. OLD HONESTY'S AMERICAN RECORD

Manzano and Snowdrift Come Out of the Steeplechase with Injuries.

Buffalo, N. Y., August 20.-Shortly before the time for the horses to go to the post for the oper ing race at Fort Erie today, a drizzling rain set in It soon turned into a sharp shower and for the mainder of the afternoon the rain came down steadily. The going for the first race was fast, but as the afternoon progressed, it became heavier

The steeplechase furnished the biggst upset of the afternoon, the two choices, Manzano and Snow-drift being beaten off. Both showed speed until the last half mile of the trip when they stopped. After the race it developed that Manzano had one of the tendons in his off hind leg almost cut in two, while Snowdrift broke down badly during the running. The winner turned up in Tony Hart, which beat out Ralph Reese after a hard drive which lasted all the last sixteenth.

George C.* Bennett was among the visitors at Fort Erie today. Mr. Bennett came on from Saratoga to look his stable over and returned to the Spa tonight. He contemplates spending the next month or six weeks with his family at Sheepshead Bay.

Mode Nicol, who purchased the hor days ago, sold him this morning to R. D. Williams of the Pasadena Stable

AMERICAN JOCKEYS ARE DISLIKED

Officials in Austria-Hungary Are Charged with Discrimination Against Them.

"The heads of the jockey clubs in Austria-Hun gary have of late been showing a decided dislike to certain American riders," writes an American who has been spending much time in racing circles at Vienna. "The most interesting case is that of jockey Harry Birkenruth, one of the best horsemer that ever rode in this country, and who has been very successful both here and in Germany. Birkenruth is a quiet lad and of good habits and is a great favorite with the racing public, but he is suspended for three or four days at a time for no apparent

"As an instance, on Saturday, August 3, he wa given four days on the ground for cutting over to the rail when a good four lengths in front, while inland riders have done this same thing time and time again when they were not far enough in th lead to avoid interfering with the other starters From the manner in which they are getting after Birkenruth it is evident that he is not wanted here Birkenruth, who sees that he is not wanted, asked his employer to release him, but Herr Maut ner von Markhof, who thinks a lot of his rider, would not consider it.

"Another case is that of 'Skeets' Martin, came over here from England to ride for Baron Rothschild under a two years' contract of $10,000 per year, beside a profitable second claim Martin's rsemanship is so well known that it is scarcely necessary to speak about it. He must be a good rider to be well up on the list in America. then ride with great success for six years in Eng land, winning all the big classics of the English turf, prominent among them being the Derby on Ard Patrick, the $50,000 Eclipse Stakes on Vedas and a number of big stakes on Rock Sand. Martin is anxious to be paid off and get away, as he fears that his good reputation will be ruined if he stays here. Martin's stable has been entirely out of form this year, but he has ridden over a outside stables, which goes to show that he is riding in good form

"On Saturday, August 3, Martin rode for his first claim a horse called Matterhorn, in a sprint race, but Matterhorn was badly beaten off. This same horse starts the next day, Martin is taken down, and an inland jockey is given the mount and Matterhorn wins handily, after being backed de from 6s to 3s. This maneuver may have had the purpose of showing that the inlander can win on a horse on which Martin could make no showing whatever. How about looking into the form rever sal of the two races?

"Jockey Gannon came over here two years ago to ride for this same trainer, but he was given the same kind of a deal and left the country after a month's stay. There are certain English trainers here who have shown openly a dislike for the Ameri can professionals and it is said that this feeling dates from the time of jockey Jim Morgan's arrival in this country, when he swept all before him with the American seat. At that time the English jockeys had a monopoly on the continent and it ems that they can never forgive the Yankees for forcing them from their position of supremacy.'

FORT ERIE MAY CLOSE SEPTEMBER 7.

Buffalo, N. Y., August 20 .- It is generally under tood that the meeting at Fort Erie will September 7, but as yet nothing official has been Gorey's Colt Runs Mile and One Hundred Yards in 1:43 4-5 at Yonkers.

New York, August 20.-The feature of an other wise dull afternoon at Empire City was the per formance of A. J. Gorey's Old Honesty in the Yonkers' Handicap, which came fourth on the card. In this race the three-year-old son of Previous-Mamie Doyle carried 114 pounds and under the pilotage of jockey Crimmins led all the way and ran the mile and one hundred yards in 1:434, a new American record. The best previous record was 1:443, made by Grand Opera as a four-year-old with only 77 pounds up at Harlem track, Chicago

The card was decidedly off color so far as high class horses were concerned, but despite the poor prospects the largest mid-week crowd of the meet was present.

The 154 layers had a banner day, as all the eavily supported horses failed to run to the expectations of their backers.

In the fifth race Ada O. Walker and Belphoebe were backed to the exclusion of the others and made a miserable showing by finishing in the last two positions. Hollow's defeat in the Gaga was due to his being caught in the barrier. Gaga's running afforded good grounds for an official nvestigation into his poor previous running.

Considerable activity was manifested in the ring n Minos when the betting was posted in the clos ing race. The steady support he received caused many to wonder why he was neglected in his previous race when he showed a poor performance. He refused to extend himself today, after being bumped into and landed among the unplaced ones, Clyde taking the purse from Woolstone.

Sam Rice, in the opening race, was much the best and after almost getting left at the post he scored handily. Virginia Maid was ordered withdrawn by the stewards on account of her own r's failure to pay forfeits.

J. Carroll was unseated from the fractiously acting Emma G. while at the post in the second, but, although striking on his head, escaped injury in the race.

For failure to be in the paddock on time, Coin-ident and The Miser were ordered withdrawn and their trainers were fined.

THIRTY LEADING OWNERS.

Another week like the last and James R. Keene will have passed the $300,000 mark in winnings for this season. It is now considered certain by those who keep an eye on English, French, German Australian, Italian, Belgian and Austrian racing statistics that Mr. Keene will this year lead the owners the world over. Frank J. Farrell, through the victory of Jim Gaffney in the Hopeful Stakes second of that good colt to Colin in the Grand Union last week, came into the list of the thirty leading owners, and is now one of the dozen who have won $30,000 or more The list. including the racing of August 17, is as follows:

WINTER DATES AND STAKES.

which last season were run at the Fair Grounds will be decided the coming winter over the City Park This condition is necessitated by the agree ment as to dates entered into when the treaty of peace between the two tracks was signed in 1906 and by the further fact that the events referred to are run on holidays and take their names from the days on which they are run, such as the Christ-mas Handicap, New Year's Handicap, the Thanksgiving Day Handicap, and so on. East year all the big holidays fell to the Fair Grounds. This Last year all coming winter the new track will have them,

The values of the events have been slightly in creased, the increases amounting to about $1,500 on a season at each track. The City Park Derby, which last year was run as a straight added money event with a premium of $5,000, will this winter be a guaranteed race with a value of $10,000, as the last Crescent City Derby was and will be again. The City Park Derby has also been changed in its conditions by the addition of a five-pound penalty for the "winner of $_{\rm e}$5,000$ in 1908." As it will be run on March 21, this penalty will hardly apply to any other than the winner of the Crescent City Derby, which will be run a week earlier, unless perchance the winners of the Ascot Derby and the California Derby should be sent to New Orleans for the race

The switch in the stakes gave to City Park three events exclusively for three-year-olds, leaving to the Fair Grounds only its Derby for horses of that age. This would make the Fair Grounds list look rather sparse, so a new stake for the youngsters, to be called the "Mississippi Selling Stakes," with $1,000 added money, has been added to the Fair Grounds list.

CHANGED ENGLISH BETTING WAYS.

Personal Wagering Less in Vogue Than of Old, but Love of Sport Is Rampant.

It is the nature of man to accept the metamor osis of life with amusement, curiosity, and mis Our national supremacy at all-aroud sport, for instance, is an engrossing topic of conversation just now. In this connection, some people exclaim 'Ichabod''; others rightly pooh-pooh idea; and some are mistrustful, yet hope for the We are a sport-loving nation, you see, and cannot help feeling keen curiosity as to our place of standing in international fray. So far, so good such keenness is laudable enough. But current pessimists labor their case unduly, forgetting two important points. Herodotus tells us there is a wheel of human affairs which, continually revolving, does not suffer the same persons to be always successful. Put another way, this means that national sporting vicissitudes are like the throw of the dice box-one year you have a plethora of talent, the next an absolute dearth of it. Who can gainsay after recent events? Disillusion is indeed, a schoolmaster who pushes his pupils. In my opinion, this question of national sporting degeneracy has been discussed with absurd gravity by many who ought to have known better-but this by the way. Another question which has roused general curiosity is the decline of the wager. The very phrase, of course, implies a totally different moral status from ordinary betting or gambling. It has always been, ordinary betting or gambing. It has always been, so he speak, a thing apart; and yet—well, it is un-mistakably on the decline. Anti-sportsmen attribute it to one influence and sportsmen themselves to quite another. Which is right?

That the wager was once part and parcel of English sport is a fact beyond all possible cavil or dispute. People wagered about anything, and nobody thought much the worse of them. How could they? For, in the definition of Mr. F. G. Affalo, the wager "a straightforward undertaking on the part of the challenger to perform a certain task of dan ger or difficulty." It may be a long walk, a ride over obstacles, severe bodily exertion, etc.; anyway, it certainly implies the spectacle of a man willing to risk his money on his own supremacy in horse manship, shooting or what not. This personal flavor even constrained goody-goody people of old to draw a distinction between the wager and so-called betting or gambling evils. They winked at wagerwhile decrying turf and card-table procedure. And much old-time wagering was con nected with what twentieth century moralists would call frivolous matters. Horsemanship, of course, brought about a very great deal. In 1831, Squire Oshaldeston backed himself to ride 200 miles, with an unlimited number of horses in ten hours. no fewer than twenty-eight horses he accomplished the feat in eight hours forty-two minutes, and landed a stake of £1,800. Captain Horne, of the Madras Horse Artillery, is said to have plished a similar feat between Madras and Bunga lore three years later for even a bigger wager. 1751 Mr. Woodcock wagered 2,000 guineas that he would ride 2,900 miles in twenty-nine consecutive days, utilizing fifteen horses. He completed the distance between May 4 and June 1. Another memorable feat was that of Mr. Bacon, Bombay Civil Service, who rode one camel 800 miles in eight

The Osbaldeston vs. Ross pigeon shooting match for £1,000 a side and that between the first-named sportsman and Mr. Farquharson for £500 a side, were wagers which caused a lot of money to change hands. Captain Ross once won £100 from Mr. George Folijambe by shooting ten brace of swallows with a pistol and single ball in one day. The birds were brought into the room while dinner was going on, which caused Lord Kennedy to remark: is the most expensive entree ever handed to me." Pedestrian wagers were of almost daily occurrence Darby Stevens won £50 by walking backwards 500 miles in twenty days, guided only by a line laid along the ground, which he was allowed to hold at intervals. Another athlete, one John Stone, wheeled a friend in a wheelbarrow a distance of three miles in half an hour "for a trifling wager." In 1820 a ran-dan match on the Thames between Messrs. Mitchell nad Holton and C. Campbell and Emery created quite a mild sensation. It was for £300 a side, and Campbell's crew won easily. amateur oarsmen were, paradoxically, fond of row ing for wagers, too. What would be said nowa days if the Leander Club's eight challenged the L. R. C. to row for a wager of £300 a side? Yet this now, as then, famous club once took part in such a race. Another amateur (sic), assisted by Williams, a waterman, rowed a pair-oared boat from Oxford to Westminster Bridge for a wager of "100 to 10." Wagers for cricket, bowling, box ing, etc., feats might be mentioned ad lib., but space will only admit of very few. A clergyman named Bevir once offered to fight any man in England for 1,000 guineas, well knowing that he would lose his gown. Nobody accepted the chal It is stated that a certain gentleman once offered to give Mr. Budd £1 for every run he scored in a great match, provided that gentleman would forfeit £20 if he failed to get twenty-five. As the result Mr. Budd's banking account was appreciably increased-but enough. Such an epoch may best be described as one of "heart and impulse." We are now, one fears, in the epoch of "head and calculation"; anyway, the good old honest English really seems as extinct as the dodo. Exactly why it is difficult to understand. It never was unwholesome. Nor can any moralist place it in the same category as "the mere passion for gambling As the Right Honorable J. Lowther once remarked. "if a man risks a sum he can afford to lose, es pecially in the form of a personal wager, he is not Sporting Life readers must not mistake my meaning. The extinction of the wager has been a gradual one. It has come "bit by bit"—as Mr. Ashton Dilke says in another connection. And even nowadays there are plenty of wagers made by sportsmen like Lord Lonsdale, the Earl of Shrews bury, Mr. J. R. Russell and others too numerou to mention. Minor wagers, too, are frequently enough in matters sporting. Hardly a day passes but some challenge or other appears in the of the Sporting Life, for instance. But, by comparison, parison, wagering can hardly be now dubbed national institution—as it was years ago. Me like Mr. John Hawke assert its decline is attrib utable to atrophy of the gambling instinct, but this is nonsense. Nothing of the sort. Man is unquestionably a gaming animal, and the very spirit which makes us strive to rise in life is twin brother to the spirit which makes men gamblers. Two men were arguing this very point a day or se ago. Waxing unduly emphatic, one exciamed.

"I assure you less wagering goes on nowadays." Onlek as "I assure you less wagering goes on than was the case twenty years ago." Quick as lightning came the response: "I'll bet you £5 there isn't." And this enterprising gentleman was a professed anti-gambler. It only shows how the love of betting is ingrained in human nature. Sportsmen like Mr. Affalo attribute the decline to hard times, agricultural depression, bad trade, etc., and the last-named reason is probably the correctione. The trend of events in 1907 has certainly induced a more cautious view of ways and means Men still bet on horse races, and women incur debts at bridge, and, as I have shown, this is not wagering, in the correct sense of the phrase. The distinction may be subtle, but it remains.

With rare unction, a current writer to a goody-goody contemporary augurs all sorts of good things from this state of affairs. He thinks it a certain sign that the love of betting is equally declining; a consummation, by the way, for which he and his anti-gambling colleagues, like Mark Twain's dog, have "fit and fit for" all these years. What an optimist he must be. We have certainly done much in England to suppress such dens of iniquity as still flourish at Baden-Baden, Hamburg, Ostend, etc. The only open gaming is that which is enacted on race courses and kindred venues. But he is hugely mis taken if he imagines English people will ever give up betting on the speed and endurance of a race horse, in particular. This, to my mind, has always been the noblest form of gambling in existence. such people ever realize the love of excitement inberent in the average person which finds expression in betting? It is idle to contemplate for a moment the idea of putting it down "in any class of life" And, if it comes to that, why should we wish to do so? Let them take Mr. Lowther's commonsense view of the matter, and draw a clear line between betting and gambling. Our goody-goody friend never refers to the evils of gambling. I may add—but let that Such people invariably fail to define the pass. Such people invariably fail to define the dividing line, which may briefly be put like this: If a man risks a sum "he can afford to lose," he is not gambling; if "he risks more than he can pay," is. Put another way, a £100 bet tween the Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Astor is not a gambling transaction, whereas a £100 between young fellows-"Whose fathers allow them £300 a And-they'll lay £1,000 to ten," described. Despite what Sydney Smith calls his 'Ten Commandments flavor,' this writer evidently knows very little, presumes a good deal, and so jumps to conclusions on the subject of betting Why call a flock of sheep wolves because there hap pens to be one or two of the lupine family mas nuerading as vegetarians?

It is refreshing to turn from this article to recent speech of Colonel A. Gilbey at the Oxford Diocesan Conference. He frankly states that mer will bet, and there is an end of it: that any scheme of reform or control, heralded just now by remorseless police spying, must be most carefully devised and brought about. favors the licensing of bookmakers, and-what the Sporting Life has agitated for years out of number -proper legislation for those who desire to bet without fear or favor. I agree with the gallant colonel that this would go far towards mitigating any evil which may arise from the practice. Failing that, he favors the legislation of the pari-mutuel (as it is called in France) or totalisator (as it is called in India and the colonies). Again I agree and only wish other men of repute would tackle the subject in the same broad-minded, honest fash-ion as Colonel Gilbey. It is only a few faddists who would try to suppress horse-racing in order to That is it. The suppression do away with betting. of sport is their primary object; all this sort of cackle about betting merely by-play, so to speak. What folly. Unless they believe in Satan himself reforming, their imaginations must be vivid in the The love of sport has grown with England's growth for well over a thousand years, and it will continue to flourish long after its present detractors are dead and forgotten .- Old Blue in

Went to post at 5:12. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won easily; second and third driving.

Chanida, favored by the soft going, followed the pacemakers close up to the stretch, then moved into the lead with a rush and won going away. Factotum ran unexpectedly well in the going, but was handicapped by the going and tired in the stretch drive. Jupiter showed superior early speed, but was unduly rushed in pacemaking and failed in the final furlong. Crafty made a good effort in the homestretch, but could not get up and quit badly. Gold Spray showed early speed. The winner was entered for $800; no bid.

Wise Hand closed an immense gap and appeared dangerous in the stretch, but tired in the final furlong. Jobstown did his best. Esteban finished fairly well. Went to post at 3:39. At post 1 minute. Start good. Wen easily; second the same; third driving.

From a good start and running to her true form today Cloisteress soon ran into the lead and, keeping it, drew away fast in the stretch and won cantering. Royal Onyx ran consistently, was in nearest pursuit of the winner throughout and finished a game and fast going second. Zelina ran in greatly improved form and gamely outstayed Belle Strome for third place. The latter closed a big gap, finished fast and bears vaiching. Little Woods was shuffled back directly after the start and came fast when too late. Baby Willie ran well. Barnsdale ran disappointingly. Lightning Conductor showed speed, but quit.

Ben Ban was luckily and forwardly placed from the start and, responding well to punishment in the last furlong, won out in a fast and game race. Vails had a very rough journey for five furlongs and just failed to get up in a cyclonic finish. Welbourne was off poorly and unlucky, finished with a belated rush and would have won if off well. Bat Masterson ran a good race, but was tiring at the end. J. C. Core ran in close quarters from a flatfooted start and was easing up at the finish. W. H. Daniel is still short. Winner—Ch. g, by Goldfinch—Solana (trained by P. M. Burch).

Went to post at 2:59. At post 1 minute. Start poor. Won driving; second and third the same. Fancy Bird was luckily and forwardly placed throughout and, in a close fit, got up to win in the last stride. D'Arkle came from far back in the stretch with a great rush. Sir Toddington ran well, but was never fully extended and an inexperienced rider threw a race away that his mount could have won easily. Mark Antony II, set a fast pace from the start and held on resolutely in the final drive. Robador steadily closed a big gap from a poor send-off. Beggar Maid ran a good three-quarters. Vino made up ground.

Scratched—70528 Inquisitor, 98.

Went to post at 3:28. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second and third driving.
Ben Fleet moved into the lead quickly and, under mild restraint, set the pace to the homestretch, where be drew away with a rush and finally won eased up. Fultonville showed much improvement, ran in closest pursuit of the winner, gamely outstayed Monopolist for second place and may be a coming good one. The latter was shuffled back early, then closed a big gap and finished with a rush. Heknows loomed up mid-and will improve. Robert Cooper ran a good half.

Winner—B. f. by Sir Dixon—Breakwater (trained by T. Welsh).

Went to post at 3:57. At post I minute. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same. Running Water was lucky and skillfully ridden, was greatly benefited by, the tremendous early pace set by Dandelion and Dr. Gardner, came with a grand flight of speed through the stretch and won drawing away. Dandelion was excessively urged in the early running and succumbed finally, but ran a grand race and is at his best. Cairngorm was outpaced early and went wide on the last turn, losing so much ground that he could not get up, but finished like a shot. Dr. Gardner passed Dandelion on the first turn and set a terrific pace to the final turlong, then tired, but held on gamely. Far West ran a fast mile and retired. Gailavant was outpaced always.

Winner—Br. c, by Galveston—Prejudice (trained by H. E. Rowell).

Went to bost at 4:52. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same. Prejudic moved into the lead after following Vervane to the backstretch and, staying unexpectedly well under a good ride, held sway to the end and is improving steadily. Howard Shean, suddenly improved, closed a big gap from a poor start and finished fast. Ramrod also ram in improved form and put up a good race. Bromina finished with a belated rush. Vervane ran well to the stretch and retired. Tiro can do better. Cork Hill seemed unable to raise a respectable gallop. Puritan Girl showed early speed.

was our advertised extra special sent out by us on Monday. He was beaten only in the last jump, thereby partially spoiling one of the biggest coups of the season. How-ever, we had previously instructed all our clients by letter to play him across the board, and the long price enabled them to clean handsomely to the race.

We know of another one of these good things that is being prepared now and will be started either September 7 or 9. The price of this one will be $2.00, and if he fails to win will furnish you our one-horse wire free for one week, worth $5.00. Send early, so we can give you full particulars. Wednestlay's Special: No. 373.

A $20 flat bet on all specials since July 30 won $410.00.
